

The Spilling of the Tea:

The History of Tea and the American Revolution

Come join the Starr Center for the American Experience for a lecture and workshop on the historical importance of tea to the American Revolution.

Tuesday, November 12th
WC-ALL Learn@Lunch

The Boston Tea Party in December of 1773 launched a series of “tea parties” across the independence-seeking colonial ports of North America.

This tea lecture and workshop will cover the fascinating interwoven narrative of tea and liberty, the role that the tea table played to American identity, and a sampling of teas (and historical baked goods) that were at the heart of this important historical moment.

On the 250th anniversary of the Boston Tea Party and the tea parties that would follow in the coming months, now is a wonderful time to know the “tea” about tea.

Please join us for a spot of tea!
